Jefferson Hotel Auditorium To-Morrow Afternoon

The first of the Musical Teas at the Jefferson Auditorium will take place to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The program, which is an unusually interesting one, will be given by Christine Miller, the well-known and exceedingly popular contralto, with Blanche Sanders Walker at the plano.

These are subscription musicales, and the number of subscribers limited, but there will be a few tickets for single performances on sale at the door.

On account of the many inquiries or seats at popular prices to these musicales from students and others, who care only for the programs, the management announces that balcony seats will be on sale at the door at half price. There will be no reserved seats.

The Engish capitaliney-general of Jamaica dates from the graves. captaincy-general of Jamaica dates from the days of Oliver Cromwell, when a British fleet unger the command of Admiral Sir William Penn, (tather of the founder of Pennsylvania) captured the island from the Spaniards and assumed the Spanish governor's title of captain-general or Jamaica in his stead, being subsequently confirmed therein by the Great Protector.

In recording Sir William Manning's bruiliant career in these letters the other day, on the occasion of his appointment to Jamaica, I described him as married to a daughter of Charles J. itoss, of Heatherdene, Bagshot. This union of three years has, however, just been dissolved by the divorce court in London on the petition of Sir William, who mamed as corespondent the officer who was stracked to his William, who named as corespondent the officer who was attached to his staff as A. # SECURE JUDGMENT

Decision of Court May Control Actions in Which $4,500,000 Is Involved.

New York, February 10 .- Judge Holt, of the United States Circuit Court, to-day awarded a judgment of $7,120 to A. Hanney & Co., Liverpool cotton brokers, against the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, on a bill of exchange made by Knight, Yancey & Co., the bankrupt cotton merchants of Decatur, Ala.

This decision probably will control a series of similar actions aggregating ing, and it is expected that the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Holt said he was bound by the rulings made by Circuit Judge Noyes in the demurrer proceedings on the original petition. Counsel for the Guaranty Trust Company argued that the litigation put at stake the integ-rity of companying Haderity of commercial documents. He declared it was inconceivable that any banker would do business on a basis banker would do business on a basis of a guarantee of the genuineness of a bill of exchange and insisted that the defendants should not be held responsible for the loss sustained, by Hanney and Company because they had indorsed the bill of exchange which was accomplished by a forged bill of lading for 100 bales of cotton. He insisted that the bill of exchange was a negotiable document under the laws of both England and this country, and since it had not been indorsed unand since it had not been indersed un til after acceptance, the Guaranty Trust Company was not liable.
